

‘THE PEOPLE IN QUESTION’ HOW CONSTITUTIONS SHAPE CITIZENSHIP

October 8, 2020 // 16:00h – 18:30h CET // Online Event

PANEL 1 | THE CONSTITUTIONAL CITIZEN

Professor Jo Shaw’s new book, ‘The People in Question’, is an important contribution in a time of rising populism and heated debates about migration. Drawing on examples from around the world, it examines what can be learned about citizenship from a constitutional perspective. This panel discusses the interaction between constitutions and citizenship and questions how it relates to stories of peoplehood, collective identities, and borders and boundaries.
